

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS AND SUBSCRIPTION INFORMATION

The contributors as well as the referees and editorial consultants are warmly thanked. Among the referees who have rendered valuable assistance in the editorial oversight of Review submissions over the past several years are, in random order: Massimo Mugnai and Richard Arthur. For this issue, Leibniz scholarship owes Philip Beeley an extraordinary debt for producing a meticulous, Academy-style edition of the 1706 document discussing Wachter, Spinoza and the Kabbala. By granting permission to publish this, the Director of the Niedersächsische Landesbibliothek has also made a genuine—and generous—contribution to such scholarship: the Academy edition volume containing that work will not appear for a few decades. Cooperative arrangements like this underscore the fact that work on Leibniz moves forward only as a result of many selfless acts united by a single passion: love for this remarkable man and his thought.

This year everyone who supports the Review can join me in thanking someone who has been somewhat behind the scenes, but whose support since 1991 has been indispensable and revealed that same passion. Dr. John O. Riedl, Jr. retires this year as Dean and Director of the Mansfield Campus of The Ohio State University. He provided funding from the university to help the Review get started back when the journal was only in its infancy, and the support has continued up to the present day.

Technical support and funding for typesetting, printing, and mailing provided by The Ohio State University at Mansfield, and the Philosophy Department and College of Humanities of The Ohio State University. Those who have secured institutional subscriptions to the Review, or who have paid Leibniz Society of North America dues or made direct cash contributions, are also thanked for generating funding. Thanks to Dan Garber, J. A. Cover and Mark Kulstad for their creative ideas about how to improve the Review. The perennial faithful support of the Society's Executive Committee and President has been invaluable.
