

About the Authors

Dominic A. Aquila is Professor of History at the University of Saint Thomas in Houston, Texas. He had previously served as Dean of Arts and Sciences and then Provost at Saint Thomas from 2007 until 2017. Before these appointments, Professor Aquila taught at Ave Maria University and Franciscan University. In the autumn of 2020, Ave Maria Press is bringing out Professor Aquila's The Church and the Age of Enlightenment (1648–1848): Faith, Science, and the Challenge of Secularism.

Ryan J. Barilleaux is Professor of Political Science at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. He is the author or editor of ten books on the American presidency and American politics, as well as many professional journal articles. He is a long-time member of the Society of Catholic Social Scientists and a former Editor-in-Chief of the Catholic Social Science Review. He has also served as chair of three academic departments at Miami University.

Msgr. Robert J. Batule is a priest of the Diocese of Rockville Centre in New York. He is on the faculty of Saint Joseph Seminary in Yonkers, New York where he is a Professor of Dogmatic Theology. He is currently the Editor-in-Chief of the Catholic Social Science Review. He holds the S.T.L. degree from the Pontifical University of Saint Thomas (the Angelicum) in Rome. He has published articles, essays and book reviews in a variety of publications over the last few decades.

Emil B. Berendt is Associate Professor of Economics at Mount Saint Mary's University in Maryland. He earned his doctoral degree from the City University of New York Graduate Center. Prior to his current position, he worked for Owens Corning forecasting the building materials and housing markets. He has also worked for AT&T in forecasting and regulatory economics. His interests include managerial economics, housing economics, and Catholic Social Thought.

Alexander D. Binder is Assistant Professor of Economics at Pittsburg State University in Pittsburg, Kansas. He obtained his doctoral degree from the University of Missouri-Kansas City. He teaches courses for the undergraduate and graduate programs in macroeconomics, sports economics, labor economics and quantitative analysis. He last published an article in the Catholic Social Science Review in 2016.

Fr. Ross Chamberland, O.F.M., is the Assistant Vice President for Student Affairs at Saint Bonaventure University in New York. He also teaches in the Department of Theology and Franciscan Studies. He has served as an Adjunct Professor of Theology at Christ the King Seminary in New York. His academic work has been primarily in the field of Catholic leadership formation.

Paul R. DeHart is Associate Professor of Political Science at Texas State University where he specializes in natural law, social contract theory, the grounds of political authority and obligation, the relationship between religion and political order, and the American founding. He is the author of Uncovering the Constitution's Moral Design (University of Missouri Press, 2007) and editor (with Carson Holloway) of Reason, Revelation, and the Civic Order: Political Philosophy and the Claims of Faith (Northern Illinois University Press, 2014).

Robert Fastiggi is Professor of Theology at Sacred Heart Major Seminary in Detroit. He holds a doctoral degree from Fordham University. He has helped edit important works like the Compendium of Creeds, Definitions, and Declarations on Matters of Faith and Morals (Ignatius Press, 2012) and the 2009–2013 supplements to the New Catholic Encyclopedia. He revised the English translation of Ludwig Ott's Fundamentals of Catholic Dogma for Baronius Press (2018).

Kenneth L. Grasso is Professor of Political Science at Texas State University. He has edited or co-edited several books, including Theology and Public Philosophy (Lexington Books, 2012) and Rethinking Rights: Historical, Political and Philosophical Perspectives (University of Missouri Press, 2008). He is currently the First Vice-President of the Society of Catholic Social Scientists and is a research associate at the Veritas Center for Ethics in Public Life.

Anne Hetson is a graduate of John Carroll University in Ohio with a Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting. She currently works for Ernst and Young in Cleveland, Ohio.

Thomas W. Jodziewicz is Professor of History at the University of Dallas where he has taught since 1978. His courses there are in American Catholic history and a variety of offerings in early and modern American history. He has published in each of these areas.

James R. Kelly received his doctoral degree from Harvard University in 1969 and began a lengthy teaching career at Fordham University in 1971; he became emeritus professor there in 2010. His chief areas of research have been in the sociology of religion and civic conflict. In his academic career, he served as a Chairman of Fordham's Department of Sociology and was elected President of the Association for the Sociology of Religion in 1997. He also served as the first executive secretary of the Cardinal Bernardin Common Ground Catholic Initiative.

Daniel R. Kempton is Professor of Political Science and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Franciscan University in Steubenville, Ohio. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois (Urbana-Champaign). He has completed two books (one authored and one edited), and published book chapters, essays and book reviews for a variety of journals. His current research focuses on Catholic teaching and the struggle against global terrorism.

Jeff Koloze took his doctoral degree in English at Kent State University. His research focuses on abortion, infanticide, and euthanasia in literature. He is the author of An Ethical Analysis of the Portrayal of Abortion in American Fiction: Dreiser, Hemmingway, Faulkner, Dos Passos, Brautigan and Irving (2005) and Testament to a Niagara Obsession (2014). A monograph on right-to-life literary theory is under publisher review.

Stephen M. Krason is Professor of Political Science at the Franciscan University in Steubenville, Ohio, where he has served on the faculty since 1986. He co-founded the Society of Catholic Social Scientists in 1992 and has served as its first and only president. He earned his J.D. and Ph.D. from the State University of New York at Buffalo. He is the author of several books and is the associate director of the Veritas Center for Ethics and Public Policy located at the Franciscan University.

Chris Lazarski earned his doctorate in Russian and Soviet history from Georgetown University. He is currently Professor of Politics and History in Warsaw, Poland. He is the author of Power Tends to Corrupt: Lord Acton's Study of Liberty (Northern Illinois University Press, 2017).

Randy Lee is Professor of Law at Widener University's Commonwealth School of Law in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Professor Lee is a long-time advocate for the rights of people with disabilities and has served as chair of the Association of American Law Schools Section on Professional Responsibility. He has contributed to four books and has published over fifty law-related articles.

Katherine LeNotre holds a doctorate in literature from the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. She previously taught at Ave Maria University and has published in Renascence.

Ezekiel T. Loseke is a doctoral student in the field of political philosophy at Hillsdale College in Michigan. He holds an M.A. degree in Political Science from Texas State University. He writes on the American covenant.

Guillermo Montes is Associate Professor of Executive Leadership in the Ralph C. Wilson Jr. School of Education at Saint John Fisher College in New York. He is also a Senior Research Associate at the Children's Institute, a non-profit organization associated with the University of Rochester.

Fr. Elmar Nass was ordained a priest in 1994 in Rome. He is Professor of Economic and Social Ethics at the Wilhelm Loehe University of Applied Sciences in Fuerth, Germany. His article "A Christian Theory of Leadership Ethics" appeared in the 2015 edition of the Catholic Social Science Review.

Cynthia Nolan is Associate Professor in the School of Security and Global Studies at the American Military University. She also is an adjunct Professor in International Relations at Christendom College in Front Royal, Virginia. She received her doctoral degree from American University in 2007. She had once served in the Directorate of Operations in the Central Intelligence Agency.

Stephen Ortiz was a good friend of Phil Crotty. He is the Treasurer of IPG Photonics Corporation. He and his wife Valerie reside in central Massachusetts and have eight children and three grandchildren.

Brian M. Saxton is an Associate Professor of Management at John Carroll University in Ohio. His work has appeared in the Journal of Management, Human Resources Management Review and the Journal of Catholic Social Thought. Among his research interests are the impact of human capital on organizational advantage, the capabilities that enable firms to pursue entrepreneurial activity and the use of sports as a context for organizational scholarship.

Kevin Schmiesing is director of research for the Freedom and Virtue Institute and a research associate at the Veritas Center for Ethics in Public Life. He is the author of numerous books and articles in the fields of Catholic Social Thought and religious and economic history. He is a regular guest on the Son Rise Morning Show on the EWTN global Catholic radio network. He was, until recently, the Book Review Editor for the Catholic Social Science Review.

Russell Shaw has published twenty-three books and contributed to or edited several others in a writing career extending more than sixty years. His articles, columns, and reviews have appeared in many periodicals in the United States and other countries. He is a former Secretary for Public Affairs of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops. He is also the former Director of Information for the Knights of Columbus.

Vincent Stine is an adjunct Professor of Political Science at George Washington University where he teaches American Political Parties and Religion and Politics. He has had more than thirty years of experience in the public policy arena, both as a congressional staffer and a lobbyist.

Bryan Tellalian is a Political Science Instructor at Reedley College in California where he also serves as the Department Chair for Fine Arts and Social Sciences. He received his J.D from the San Joaquin College of Law. His research interests include political philosophy, law and religion and Catholic Social Teaching.

Mark Therrien obtained his Ph D in the History of Christianity at the University of Notre Dame. He is now an Assistant Professor of Dogmatic Theology at the University of Saint Mary of the Lake in Illinois. He specializes in patristics, and is interested especially in the re-integration of scriptural exegesis and systematic theology.

John P. Varacalli received his M.A. from C.U.N.Y. and is employed at First Things in New York City.

Joseph A. Varacalli is S.U.N.Y. Distinguished Service Professor of Sociology at the Nassau Community College in Garden City, New York. In 1992, he co-founded the Society of Catholic Social Sciences with Dr. Stephen M. Krason.

Thomas Varacalli is a Senior Lecturer at Texas State University. He received his doctoral degree from the Louisiana State University. He has published in the History of Political Thought, Logos, and the Naval War College Review.

Mariah Webinger is an Associate Professor of Accountancy at John Carroll University in Ohio. Her research interests are in fraud, business ethics and sustainability. She has published in Research in Accounting Regulation, Accounting Education: An International Journal and Compensation and Benefits Review among others.

Randall Woodard is director of the MA program, undergraduate chair, and Professor of Theology at Saint Leo University in Florida. He was awarded his doctoral degree by Duquesne University. His focus has been in the area of systematic theology, with an emphasis on marriage and family life. His articles have been published in the International Journal of Marriage, Families and Spirituality and the Catholic Social Science Review.