

About the Authors

Jane Adolphe is a civil lawyer called to practice law in the State of New York (USA) and the Province of Alberta (Canada). She is a canon lawyer, too. She currently teaches at the Ave Maria School of Law in Naples, Florida. In the past, she has worked for the Holy See and the Secretariat of State in the Section for Relations of States as an outside consultant, and then as an inside expert for the Vatican City State during the final years of Benedict XVI's pontificate.

Diane Aquila started a homeschooling group in western New York years ago and wrote a newsletter in Ohio on homeschooling for families for several years. For the past thirteen years, she has directed the Aquinas Homeschooling tutorial. Along the way, she has been a recipient of awards for her contributions to homeschooling.

Dominic A. Aquila is a Professor of History and director of institutional effectiveness and assessment at the University of Saint Thomas in Houston, Texas, where he was the founding dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, provost, and dean of graduate studies. Ave Maria Press will bring out his book The Church and the Age of Enlightenment, 1648–1800, in 2022. He is also the Book Review Editor for the Catholic Social Science Review.

Joseph Aquila is a J.D. candidate at the University of Houston Law Center. He spent three years working in the oil and gas industry before beginning law school. He graduated from the University of Saint Thomas (Houston) in 2018 magna cum laude with a B.A. in International Studies and minors in philosophy and theology.

Ryan Barilleaux is Professor of Political Science at Miami University (Ohio). His work focuses on the American presidency and Catholic perspectives on American politics. He is the author or editor of ten books and more than sixty articles in professional outlets. He received his Ph.D. in Government from the University of Texas at Austin (1983) and also served as an aide in the United States Senate. He is a former Editor-in-Chief of the Catholic Social Science Review. Over the course of his career, he has been a department chair in three different academic disciplines.

Msrgr. Robert J. Batule is a priest of the Diocese of Rockville Centre in New York State. Since 2018, he has been the Editor-in-Chief of the Catholic Social Science Review. Over the last few decades, he has been a contributor of articles and book reviews to journals, magazines, and newspapers. He holds the S.T.L. degree in the field of dogmatic theology from the Pontifical University of Saint Thomas in Rome (the Angelicum).

Emil Berendt is Associate Professor of Economics at Mount Saint Mary's University in Maryland. His Ph.D. is from the City University of New York Graduate Center. Prior to his current position, he worked for Owens Corning forecasting the building materials and housing markets. He also worked for AT&T in forecasting and regulatory economics. His interests include management economics, housing economics, and Catholic social thought. The Scholastic just price and the housing bubble of the mid-2000s have been the subjects of his most recent research.

P. Bracy Bersnak is an Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science and Economics at Christendom College in Front Royal, Virginia. He received his M.A. in Modern European History and his M.A. and Ph.D. in Political Theory from the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

Steven J. Brust is an Associate Professor of Political Science at Eastern New Mexico University, where he teaches courses in American government and political theory. His research interests include natural law and natural rights, Church-State relations, and Western political thought. He also has an interest in Catholic Social and Political Thought as it relates to the American political order and culture.

Stephen Bullivant is Professor of Theology and the Sociology of Religion at Saint Mary's University (UK) and professorial Research Fellow in Theology and Sociology at the University of Notre Dame in Australia. He holds doctoral degrees from the University of Oxford and the Warwick University. Most recently, he has published Nonverts: The Making of Ex-Christian America(ns) (Oxford University Press, 2021) and edited The Cambridge History of Atheism (2021) in two volumes with the same Oxford University Press.

Ligia De Jesus Castaldi is a Professor of Law at the Ave Maria School of Law. She teaches courses on international law and family law. Before joining the Ave Maria School of Law faculty, Professor Castaldi worked for several international and governmental human rights agencies. She was a legal advisor to the National Congress of Honduras on family law issues. She received LL.M degrees from the University of Groningen and Harvard Law School.

Stephen Cranney is a Washington, D.C. area data scientist focusing on non-governmental organizations concerning religion and the public square. He is also a non-resident Fellow at Baylor University's Institute for the Studies of Religion and teaches at Bowie State University. He has published over twenty peer-reviewed studies, and has been interviewed about his research by The Guardian, The Atlantic, and Christianity Today.

Paul R. DeHart is Associate Professor of Political Science at Texas State University, where he specializes in natural law, social contract theory, the American founding, and the nature of political authority and obligation. He is the author of Uncovering the Constitution's Moral Design (University of Missouri Press, 2007) and editor, with Carson Holloway, of Reason, Revelation, and the Civic Order: Political Philosophy and the Claims of Faith (Northern Illinois University Press, 2014).

Tomas Diaz is an educator and independent scholar of theology in Houston, Texas. When taking a break from high school and college teaching, he studies and writes on Catholic social teaching, spirituality, and pop culture.

James J. Dillon is Professor of Psychology at the University of West Georgia where he has taught for twenty-three years. He has a B.A. in Psychology from the College of the Holy Cross and a Ph.D. in Child Psychology from Clark University in Worcester, Massachusetts. His background is in human development, education, religion, and philosophy. He does research on topics involving education, marriage preparation, parenting, and human development. He is the author of Inside Today's Elementary Schools (Palgrave Macmillan, 2019).

Derek M. Doroski is a Professor of Developmental Biology at the Franciscan University of Steubenville, Ohio.

Robert Fastiggi is Professor of Dogmatic Theology at Sacred Heart Major Seminary in Detroit, Michigan. He was the co-editor of the English translation of the 43rd edition of the Denzinger-Hunermann Compendium of Creeds, Definitions, and Declarations on Matters of Faith and Morals (Ignatius Press, 2012) and was the executive editor of the 2009–2013 supplements to the New Catholic Encyclopedia. He also revised the English translation of Ludwig Ott's Fundamentals of Catholic Dogma for Baronium Press (2018).

Timothy J. Flickinger is a biology student at the Franciscan University in Steubenville, Ohio.

Jerome C. Foss is an Associate Professor of Politics and holds the endowed directorship of the Center for Catholic Thought and Culture at Saint Vincent College in Latrobe, Pennsylvania, where he is also a Fellow of the Center for Political and Economic Thought. He earned his Ph.D. at Baylor University. His most recent book is Flannery O'Connor and the Perils of Governing by Tenderness (Lexington Books, 2019).

Kenneth L. Grasso is Professor of Political Science at Texas State University. He has edited or co-edited several books, including Theology and Public Philosophy (Lexington Books, 2012) and Rethinking Rights: Historical, Political and Philosophical Perspectives (University of Missouri Press, 2008). He serves as the First Vice-President of the Society of Catholic Social Scientists and is a research associate at the Veritas Center for Ethics in Public Life.

Thomas P. Harmon is an Associate Professor and Scanlon Foundation Chair in Theology at the University of Saint Thomas in Houston, Texas, where he teaches undergraduate and graduate theology courses and in the Honors program.

Stephen M. Krason is Professor of Political Science and Legal Studies at the Franciscan University of Steubenville, where he has served on the faculty since 1986. He is also the Associate Director of the University's Veritas Center for Ethics in Public Life. He is a co-founder and long-time President of the Society of Catholic Social Scientists. He earned his J.D. and Ph.D. from the State University of New York at Buffalo and is an attorney. He has authored and edited numerous books.

Michael P. Krom is Professor and Chair of the Philosophy Department, and Director of Benedictine Leadership Studies, at Saint Vincent College (Latrobe, Pennsylvania). He recently published Justice and Charity: An Introduction to Aquinas' Moral, Economic, and Political Thought (Baker Academic Press, 2020).

Erin K. Luciano is a graduate of the Franciscan University of Steubenville biology program.

Lucas A. Mitzel is currently a pharmacy student at South Dakota State University.

Clyde Ray is Assistant Professor of Political Science and Chair of the Department of Social Sciences at Lincoln Memorial University in Harrogate, Tennessee.

Emma E. Redfield is a graduate of the Franciscan University of Steubenville biology program.

Robert R. Reilly is Director of the Westminster Institute. He has taught at the National Defense University and served in the Office of the Secretary of Defense. He was Senior Advisor to the Iraqi Ministry of Information. He also served for a time as a Special Assistant to the President (1983– 1985) and in the United States Information Agency. He was also Director of the Voice of America. Among his many publications are America on Trial: A Defense of the Founding (Ignatius Press, 2020) and The Closing of the Muslim Mind: How Intellectual Suicide Created the Modern Islamist Crisis (ISI Books, 2010).

Giovanni R. P. Sadewo is a social network analyst. He is working as a post-doctoral research fellow in the Social Network Laboratory of Swinburne University of Technology. He holds a doctorate in Social Psychology from La Trobe University (2017). He has worked on many research projects using advanced methods of social network analysis such as the Stochastic Actor Oriented Model and the Exponential Random Graph Model.

Jonathan Salmonowicz is a student at the Franciscan University of Steubenville in Ohio.

Isaac J. Sanford is a 2018 graduate of Franciscan University of Steubenville in Ohio. He is currently a middle-school science and high school anatomy and physiology teacher at Founders Classical Academy in Lewisville, Texas.

Grant Sasse is an Associate Professor in the Clinical Mental Health Counseling program at the University of Saint Thomas in Houston, Texas. He has a Ph.D. in Counselor Education and Supervision, is a licensed Professional Counselor Supervisor, and a Master Addiction Counselor. He has worked in private practice for several years and has had various contracts with medical schools to provide clinical services to the nation's future medical professionals. His clinical and research interests include Catholicism and psychotherapy, addictions, and trauma.

Andrew J. Schmidt graduated with a B.A. in Philosophy and minors in Theology and Biology from the Franciscan University of Steubenville in Ohio. He is currently a seminarian for the Diocese of Kalamazoo at Sacred Heart Major Seminary in Detroit, where he is pursuing a Master of Divinity Degree.

Monica J. Sewell studied biology and philosophy at the Franciscan University of Steubenville in Ohio. After obtaining her B.A. degree, she worked for a member of Congress on Capitol Hill and is now with Americans United for Life.

J. Marianne Siegmund received her S.T.L. degree from the Pontifical John Paul II Institute for the Studies on Marriage and Family and her S.T.D. from the Pontifical University of Saint Thomas in Rome (the An-gelicum). She teaches at Holy Apostles College and Seminary, as well as several other academic institutions of higher learning. She has lectured, delivered scholarly papers at conferences across the nation, and she has published articles in both philosophy and theology. She is the Director of the Master of Arts Program for Holy Apostles.

Vincent Stine is an Adjunct Professor of Political Science at George Washington University, where he teaches American Political Parties and Religion and Politics. Dr. Stine has more than thirty years of experience working in the public policy arena, both as a congressional staffer and as a lobbyist.

David Tamisiea is the Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences and an Associate Professor of Theology at the University of Mary in North Dakota. He previously served as the Executive Director of the Saint Philip Institute in Tyler, Texas, and as an Assistant Professor of Theology and Director of the Undergraduate Theology Program at the Ave Maria University in Florida. Prior to his academic career, Dr. Tamisiea was a practicing attorney in Dallas, Texas. He holds a B.A. from the University of Notre Dame, a J.D. from the University of Texas, and a Ph.D. in theology from the Ave Maria University.

Adam L. Tate is Professor of History and Chair of the Department of Humanities at Clayton State University in Morrow, Georgia.

Thomas F. X. Varacalli is Senior Lecturer at Texas State University. He has published in History of Political Thought, Naval War College Review, and Logos. He received his doctoral degree in political science from Louisiana State University.

Christopher James Wolfe is Assistant Professor of Political Science at the University of Saint Thomas in Houston, Texas. His dissertation at Claremont Graduate University was on Alasdair MacIntyre and rights. His most recent publication, “When Is It Prudent to Polarize?,” can be found in Perspectives on Political Science.

Limore Yagil is Professor of Contemporary History at the University of Sorbonne in Paris. She was a researcher at Yad Veshem in Jerusalem and the Advanced Center for Holocaust Studies in Washington, D.C. She is the author of numerous books, including Catholiques religieux au secours des Juifs en France, 1940–1944 (2021), Chrétiens et Juifs sous Vichy, 1940–1944 (2005), and Les anonymes de la Résistance en France, 1940–1942: motivations et engagements de la première heure (2019).