

NOTES ON THE CONTRIBUTORS

Brent Ables is a PhD candidate at the University of Guelph in Ontario. His doctoral research focuses on problems of time in contemporary continental philosophy, but he has a general interest in the history of philosophy and the fate of the discipline in a scientific age. He has presented work on Plato, Nietzsche, Deleuze, and the philosophy of music. Contact: ablesb@gmail.com.

Muralidharan Anantharaman is a recent MA graduate from the National University of Singapore. His main areas of interest are in political philosophy, moral philosophy, meta-ethics, epistemology, social epistemology and decision theory. The bulk of his philosophical research has until now been concerned with Rawls's Original Position, the justification of its features, and various epistemological problems with the use of reflective equilibrium in moral and political philosophy. His thesis can be accessed online at the following URL: <http://scholarbank.nus.edu.sg/handle/10635/77767>. Contact: amurali284@gmail.com.

Dionysis Christias received his PhD from the Department of History and Philosophy of Science at the University of Athens. His research interests include epistemology, metaphilosophy, the debate between naturalism and normativism, the philosophy of Wilfrid Sellars and post-Sellarsian philosophy. His most recent articles include "Somatic Intentionality Bifurcated: A Sellarsian Response to Sachs' Merleau-Pontyan Account of Intentionality" (forthcoming in International Journal of Philosophical Studies, 2015), "Sellars, the Myth of the Categorical Given, and Correlationism: A Sellarsian Critique of Meillassoux's Arguments against Correlationism" (forthcoming in Journal of Philosophical Research, 2015), "A Sellarsian Approach to the Normativism-Antinormativism Controversy" (Philosophy of the Social Sciences, 2014), and "An Interpretation and Extension of Sellars' Views on the Epistemic Status of Philosophical Propositions" (Metaphilosophy, 2014). Contact: dxristias@gmail.com.

Robert Hudson received his Ph.D. in the Philosophy of Science from the University of Western Ontario in 1992. He has taught at a number of universities throughout North America, and since 2001 has been at the University of Saskatchewan. He works mainly in the areas of epistemology and the history and philosophy of science. His book Seeing Things: The Philosophy of Reliable

Erik J. Wielenberg

Observation was published in 2013 by Oxford University Press. Contact: r.hudson@usask.ca.

Kevin McCain is Assistant Professor of Philosophy at the University of Alabama at Birmingham. His primary areas of research are epistemology and philosophy of science. He is the author of two books: Evidentialism and Epistemic Justification (Routledge, 2014) and The Nature of Scientific Knowledge (Springer, Forthcoming). He is currently co-editing, with Ted Poston, Best Explanations: New Essays on Inference to the Best Explanation (Oxford University Press, Forthcoming). Contact: mccain@uab.edu.

Mihai Rusu is postdoctoral fellow in the SOP HRD/159/1.5/S/133675 Project, Romanian Academy, Iași Branch. He received his Ph.D in Philosophy from Babeș-Bolyai University in Cluj-Napoca, Romania (2012). His main research interests include modal epistemology and metaphysics, general epistemology, philosophy of language, and modal logic. Contact: miruss_ab@yahoo.com.

Ju Wang is a PhD candidate at the University of Edinburgh, after having finished his Master degree in Fudan University, China. His research interests are radical scepticism and transcendental arguments. His most recent article is “Closure and Underdetermination Again” (Philosophia, 2014). Contact: virgilwang0410@gmail.com.

Erik J. Wielenberg is Professor of Philosophy at DePauw University in Greencastle, Indiana, and for 2014-15 is a Visiting Fellow at the Centre for Ethics, Philosophy and Public Affairs at the University of St. Andrews. He works mainly in ethics and the philosophy of religion and is particularly interested in issues at the intersection of those two fields. His latest book is Robust Ethics: The Metaphysics and Epistemology of Godless Normative Realism (Oxford University Press, 2014). Contact: ewielenberg@depauw.edu.