From Research to Learning: Introduction................................. 1
  David W. Concepción

Rancière and Pedagogy:
Knowledge, Learning, and the Problem of Distraction............... 7
  Gwen Daugs

Drawing for Understanding, Insight, and Discovery.................. 22
  Juli K. Thorson

Scaffolding for Fine Philosophical Skills ................................ 34
  Russell Marcus

Letting Students Choose:
Investigating the Menu Approach to Graded Work.................... 68
  Andrew P. Mills

Beyond Information Recall:
Sophisticated Multiple-Choice Questions in Philosophy............ 89
  J. Robert Loftis

Developing Engineering Students’ Moral Reasoning Skills
Using Problem-Based Learning............................................. 123
  Maralee Harrell

Cross-Year Peer Mentorship in Introductory
Philosophy Classes: The Home Base Mentoring Program ........ 144
  Julie Walsh, Sara M. Fulmer, and Sarah Pociask
An Invitation to Scholarly Teaching:
Some Annotations on the Scholarship of Teaching and (Especially) Learning for Philosophers ................................. 169
Helen Meskhidze, Claire A. Lockard, and Stephen Bloch-Schulman

Notes on Contributors ............................................................. 200