FRIENDSHIP—AROUND MICHAEL H. MITIAS’ FRIENDSHIP:
A CENTRAL MORAL VALUE

Editorial — Friendship—Around Michael H. Mitias’ Friendship:
A Central Moral Value ................................................................. 5

Necip Fikri Alican — Angelique: An Angel in Distress, Morality in Crisis ....... 9
Ben Mulvey — Can Humans and Robots Be Friends? .................................. 49
Ruth Abbey — Continuing Questions about Friendship as a Central Moral Value 65
Manjulika Ghosh — A Portrait of Friendship ............................................. 81
Martha C. Beck — Plato’s Dialogues: Creating Friendship Bonds for 2400 Years ............................................................................. 99

IDEALS, UNIVERSAL VALUES, DIALOGUE

Sergei Nizhnikov — Striving to Moral Policy .................................................. 119
Iryna V. Stepanenko — Personal Axiological Competence as a Component of Society’s Values Capital: The Call for Higher Education in the Globalized World ................................................................. 133
Elena Tashlinskaya — Professional Culture and Professional Ethics:
A View from Russia ........................................................................... 149
Daniel O. Adekeye — The Hegelian Phenomenological Exposition of the Problem of Social Identity: A Theoretical Framework for Managing Difference in Multi-Ethnic Societies .............................................. 159
Herbert Pietschmann, Hisaki Hashi — Natural Philosophy and Natural Science:
Tangent and Emergence—between Conflicting Poles in the Interdisciplinary Discourse. A Dialogue on the Epistemology of Quantum Physics ......... 177
Shoshana Ronen — Heschel’s Disciples on Jewish-Christian Dialogue and Pope
John Paul II .................................................................................. 201