2018 Presidential Address for the Society for Ethics Across the Curriculum

Reflections on . . . Shifting the Educational Narrative

Deborah S. Mower ................................................................................................................................. 91

Is There a Case for Gamification in Business Ethics Education? An Empirical Study

Michael D. Baumtrog, Hilary Martin, Zahra Vahedi, and Sahar Ahadi ..... 113

Hasbro’s Monopoly: The Use of a Board Game to Create a Discussion of Business Ethics

Esteban Arroyo and James J. Hoffman ................................................................. 129

A Strategy for Meaningful Ethics Curriculum

Susan LeFrancois ......................................................................................................................... 137

Teaching Ethical Reasoning: Program Design and Initial Outcomes of Ethical Reasoning in Action, a University-wide Ethical Reasoning Program

G. Fletcher Linder, Allison J. Ames, William J. Hawk, Lori K. Pyle, Keston H. Fulcher, and Christian E. Early ................................................................. 147

Privacy in a Connected World: Integrating Ethical Reasoning into an Applied Science Curriculum Through Holistic Problem Solving

Emily York and Ahmad Salman ..................................................................................................... 171

The Moral Hazards of Using Turnitin as a Learning Tool

Andrew Pavelich ......................................................................................................................... 195

Communication Ethics: Patching a Hole in the Philosophy Curriculum

Lawrence Adam Lengbeyer ................................................................................................. 207
Exploring Ethical Assumptions and Bias in Medical Ethics Teaching

Silvia Panizza .............................................................................................................. 233

The Ethics of Writing Services for Graduate Students

Becky De Oliveira ...................................................................................................... 245

The Moral Supply Chain, Phronësis, and Management Education

Guli-Sanam Karimova and Stephen A. LeMay ......................................................... 255

Book Reviews

A Case for Kindness: A New Look at the Teaching Ethic—
by Steve Broidy

Kaci Harrison .............................................................................................................. 277

On Critical Pedagogy—
by Henry A. Giroux

Zachary Auwerda .................................................................................................... 280