CONTENTS
Volume XXXIII, Supplement

Spindel Conference:
Vagueness

Editor’s Introduction by Terry Horgan.................................i

Vagueness: Welcome to the Quicksand.................................1
Michael Tye

Something to do With Vagueness...........................................23
Linda Burns

Commentary:
Vagueness, Indiscernibility, and Pragmatics.......................49
Achille Varzi

Why the World Cannot be Vague..........................................63
R. M. Sainsbury

Commentary: On Vague Objects, Fuzzy Logic,
and Fractal Boundaries...................................................83
B. Jack Copeland

Transvaluationism: A Dionysian Approach to Vagueness..........97
Terry Horgan

Commentary: Transvaluationism........................................127
Diana Raffman

The Epistemic Conception of Vagueness..............................133
Crispin Wright

Commentary: The Epistemic Conception of Vagueness............161
Roy A. Sorensen

Definiteness and Knowability.............................................171
Timothy Williamson

Commentary: Some Remarks on Vagueness
and a Dynamic Conception of Language............................193
Jamie Tappenden

Distinctions Without a Difference.................................203
Vann McGee & Brian McLaughlin

Commentary: Proliferating Conceptions of Truth................253
Dominic Hyde