

CIVIL WAR HISTORY

CONTENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 2002

Volume Forty-eight · Number Three

An Ambulating Hospital: or, How the Hospital Train Transformed Army Medicine	197
ALAN HAWK
Seldom Thanked, Never Praised, and Scarcely Recognized: Gender and Racism in Civil War Hospitals	220
JANE E. SCHULTZ
Posterity's Blush: Civil Liberties, Property Rights, and Property Confiscation in the Confederacy	237
BRIAN R. DIRCK
Book Reviews	257
Endnotes	286

The cover image shows the interior of a boxcar configured as an improvised hospital car. Stretchers were lashed to upright posts. (For the story, see page 197.)
From Military and Surgical History of the War of the Rebellion.