

Essays in Philosophy

A Biannual Journal

Volume 18, No. 2

War and Moral Psychology

Editor's Introduction

Essays in Philosophy: Moral Psychology and War Krista Karbowski Thomason	203
--	-----

Essays

Haunted by a Different Ghost: Re-thinking Moral Injury MaryCatherine Mcdonald	207
---	-----

Despairing about War: The Democratic Limits of Pessimism Suzanne Dovi	223
---	-----

Oppositional Courage: The Martial Courage of Refusing to Fight James Rocha	245
--	-----

Military Professionalism and PTSD: On the Need for "Soldier-Artists" Nolen Gertz	264
--	-----

Moral Injury, Jus Ad Bellum, and Conscientious Refusal Andrew Fiala	281
---	-----

Objective and Subjective Blame after War Shannon Fyfe and Amy McKiernan	295
---	-----

Book Reviews

Review of Intuition Pumps and Other Tools for Thinking , by Daniel C. Dennett Ian O'Loughlin	316
--	-----

Review of Are We Smart Enough to Know How Smart Animals Are? , by Frans de Waal Jacob Caton	328
--	-----

Review of Public Reason Confucianism: Democratic Perfectionism and Constitutionalism in East Asia , by Sungmoon Kim Yi Deng	339
Review of Kafka and Wittgenstein , by Rebecca Schuman Joshua Kortbein	347
Book Review of El Miedo en la ciudad de Rio de Janeiro: dos tiempos de una historia. (The Fear in the City of Rio de Janeiro, two times and the same story) , by Vera Malaguti Batista Maximiliano E. Korstanje	357
Review of Philosophy Bites Again , by David Edmonds and Nigel Warburton Steve Ross	361